

"Bravery is being the only one who knows you're afraid."

- David Hackworth

"War is an art and as such is not susceptible of explanation by fixed formula"

- General George Patton Jr.

"....If you leave here with the word DUTY implanted in your mind; if you leave here with the word HONOR carved in your soul; if you leave here with love of COUNTRY stamped on your heart, then you will be a twenty-first century leader worthy...of the great privilege and honor...of leading...the sons and daughters of America..."

Dear Business Owner,

One of the many challenges endured by service members returning home from war is attending college for the first time. This transition can be even more difficult when students encounter a sudden financial hardship. Stockton University seeks to help by providing financial support for these unexpected situations.

On May 4, 2018, Stockton University will be hosting our annual Colonel Kenneth R. Stow Memorial Scholarship Golf Tournament at Seaview Golf Resort in Galloway. This tournament was created to help assist military students who are experiencing a hardship by providing financial assistance for meals, housing, books, and other necessities. While the GI Bill and other benefits provide for some educational expenses, service members and veterans often encounter costs preventing them from reaching their educational goals.

With your assistance, we can ensure all military-affiliated students are supported throughout their academic career. All donations are tax-deductible, and 100% of the net proceeds go directly to Stockton's military students. This includes Active Duty, National Guard, Reserves, and Veterans.

If you are interested in participating or sponsoring a great military and veteran program, please contact the Office of Military and Veteran Services at 609-652-4315, or by email at OMVS@stockton.edu

Sincerely,
